

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING SPACE is, by long odds, the CHEAPEST COMMODITY you can buy. It reduces the cost of doing things to the lowest point.

Classified Ads. Appeal to The Imagination

The little ads., printed under classifications which place them in "preferred positions" in the newspaper, are not dull reading for those who have a little vision and imagination.

Perhaps many years ago you made a business connection which has shaped the course of your life—limited your opportunities—kept you tied down, during years of priceless value, to small things and trivial activities. If that business connection had been more wisely or more fortunately made—as might have been the case if you had read and used the classified columns at the time—the whole trend of your affairs might have been steadily upward, steadily progressive. How are you to compute the value to you of a classified ad. which would have so altered your life for the better?

Right now the classified columns offer to you OPPORTUNITY. Right now they offer you SERVICE—perhaps may bring to you new roads to wealth, new chances for usefulness. The lost opportunity comes back to you with every new day. Why not accept it?

Without imagination, without vision and ideals, one may drag through life, oblivious to possibilities for advancement. To such people the classified ads mean little—they are just classified ads. But to the forward-looking people they are channels of communication with other people whose interests are identical—people with whom they have business to transact, or with whom they should be associated in business life.

THE CLASSIFIED ADS ARE INSTRUMENTS OF SERVICE FOR ALL WHO CAN USE THEM.

PRINCE JOHN HAS LOST OFFICER TO THE NAVY

Capt. John Baillies - Has Been Ordered To Report at Esquimalt for Naval Reserves.

John Baillies, one of the efficient officers of the Grand Trunk steamer Prince John, which was in port from the south Saturday night was not aboard this trip. He received orders just before leaving Prince Rupert to report at once to the senior naval officer at Esquimalt for appointment under the new regulations whereby master mariners are taken into the naval reserve with the rank of "Skipper."

Captain Baillies is a deep sea man, but for the last few years has been in the coasting service and was one of the officers of the "Prince John." Captain Baillies has led an adventurous life, and has been to sea ever since he was a boy. His first voyage was to Australia and back many years ago, when the return trip in a sailing vessel took between one and two years. He also was under Admiral Seymour in the Boxer rising in China and has been in South America during some of the frequent revolutions in some states there. For all round adventure, his experiences have been very interesting.

PRINCE RUPERT FLOATED FROM ROCKY ISLAND

Safely Pulled off at Last and Taken to Drydock To Be Given Her Repairs.

The officers of the Admiral Evans, which arrived yesterday morning report that the big steamer Prince Rupert was floated from the rocks of Lawyer Island last Friday noon and was being taken into Prince Rupert to be placed on the dry dock when the Evans met her. Several extra pumps were working to keep the ship free of water, indicating that she was badly strained and torn when being pulled from the beach.

Following the failure of the tug boat to pull the Rupert from the rocks last Sunday, a week ago, it was planned to have the Prince George pass the scene of the wreck as close as possible at high tide Friday. It was thought that the swells from the George would raise the surface of the water about three feet and that by pulling on the Rupert with the tug at the same time it would be possible to float her.

If this failed it was then planned

DOPING OR SELF-DOCTORING

This form of treatment includes patent medicines, friends' prescriptions and treatment by people who think they know something, but in reality know very little of your ailment. Sit down and figure up what you have already spent for that kind of treatment and see what it amounts to? Are you any better for it?

REMEMBER, in disease, TIME is valuable, the longer your trouble lasts, the more difficult is it to remove.

YOU are anxious to get well, why don't you go about it the RIGHT way?

Make up your mind, you will THEN come and see me and learn the TRUTH. I promise nothing I cannot fulfill. Each day you wait is a day lost.

for the George and the tug both to put lines aboard the Rupert and haul her from the beach. One of these plans was evidently successful.

Capt. John D. MacPherson, wreck commissioner for British Columbia, has been instructed by the Canadian marine department at Ottawa to hold a formal investigation of the stranding of the Prince Rupert.

CANNERIES ARE FACING A CAN SHORTAGE NOW

Plenty of Tin Is on the Market but Shortage of Ingots Causing Big Trouble.

That the salmon canneries of Alaska are facing a serious condition in the shortage of tin cans to put up their product is the assertion of cannermen and others who are conversant with the situation. All of the canneries have placed the contracts for cans or can making material, but only those who contracted for early delivery are sure of receiving their supplies in time to take advantage of the salmon run. Others are still waiting shipment.

Several of the new canneries contemplating opening for business this season may be forced to wait until next year before breaking into the game on this account. No trouble has been experienced on account of a shortage of tin because the American Tin Plate Company, the largest manufacturer of tin has a sufficient quantity of block tin on hand for all needs.

The trouble comes from a shortage of steel ingots of the required fineness and size to roll the plates which are afterwards coated with tin to make the tin plate.

Ammunition shells are made of virtually the same materials as tin cans. If war demands draws plate to munition factories instead of to can-makers the shortage that is experienced to occur in any event, will undoubtedly become much worse.

Eastern can-makers declare themselves unable to keep pace with the demands. Larger canners who took deliveries early, are congratulating themselves on having their warehouses stocked against the threatened shortage.
